At 10 o'clock there is no reasonable doubt that Benjamin Harrison is the next President of the United States.

The Democrats have been claiming Illinois as a forlorn hope.

Illinois, with its 22 votes, would probably elect Cleveland despite the loss of New York.

The early returns seemed to justify this claim. Cleveland made big gains in Chicago and the northern counties. But this gain has been in a measure offset by losses in the southern counties. There remains only a possibility that the Democrats may still carry the State.

Missouri has had a peculiar election. St. Louis going Republican. The Democratic State and National tickets, however, are elected.

The returns thus far received indicate that the tariff-reform issue has proven strongest in the States hopelessly Republican. In Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska the Democratic ticket has made large gains upon the lines foreshadowed in the recent tariff debate in the House. These gains, though encouraging, have not been sufficient to offset the Republican majorities in those States, and have therefore been of no material advantage to the National Democratic ticket. On the other hand, the tariff issue has not proven strong in the doubtful States, particularly in New York.

The Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee have been re-elected. They represent solidly Democratic districts in the main, however, though there can be no doubt of the popularity of the tariff issue among their constituents.

From the latest advices it is probable that the Republican gains in the South and East will exceed all expectations. A careful compilation of Congressional returns received at this hour would indicate that the Republicans will control the next House by from eight to ten majority.

ILLINOIS A FORLORN HOPE.

Later Returns Discredit the Democratic Claims to the State.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Returns from this State received after midnight do not bear out the favorable Democratic outlook of earlier reports. Cleveland has not maintained the heavy lead he had in all the northern counties. These counties are usually strongly Republican, and Cleveland's surprising strength among them seemed likely to give him the State.

But he has gained relatively in the Democratic票 in the southern part of the State, where he was expected to do the best.

There is no doubt that Harrison has a plurality in the State. The closest estimates put it at 10,000, but the returns are few and scattering, however. These figures are only a guess, which may change with fuller information. Some counties have not reported any returns, and some, on first or second presentation, have come from different cities. Cleveland also gained relatively in the southern counties, and is now believed to have a slight lead over Palmer in the State.

INDIANA STILL DOUBTFUL.

Both Parties are Claiming the Hoosier State This Morning.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 7.—Returns from about 80 per cent. of the voting precincts in Indiana indicate that the State is definitely Republican, and that it will require complete returns to determine the result. Democratic gains of over 400 in LaPorte County are reported, and they will greatly reduce the average of the Republican gains reported last night. Both sides are still claiming the State, with about equal prospects of being carried.

Harrison Gains in One County.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Nov. 7.—No definite information has been received from any of the townships in this county, but it is conceded that Harrison will make a gain of about 150 votes over that given Cleveland in 1884.

Harrison Behind Blaine in the Keystone State.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—The apparent Republican majority in this State is 72,000. This is 11,000 under the first claim. In the city of Philadelphia Harrison runs 11,000 behind Blaine's vote in 1884, owing to trades on the local ticket.
